It's a relative thing. From left: Joyce Snowball, Gordon McQuarrie and Inge Bekken.

Toby Jaxon's (left) artwork is displayed inside the office. She was congratulated by Kris Ongman (centre) and husband David Mell.

Karen Hoffman (left) and Barb Lang have some close ties to the partners. Barb is Blair's wife.

Kilgour Shives, seen here with wife Joyce, enjoyed looking at the artwork. Kilgour's son's work is also on display.

Little Emily Alexander is almost one-year-old now. Dad Randy and mom Kelli are both good friends of the partners.

Marathon athlete and writer Shane Collins (from left) was in attendance with his sports physician wife Debbie and friend Howard Bickford.

Business partners Blair MacLean and Marion Snowball are very proud of their new surroundings.

Frank and Marilyn Lenzen are both neighbours and clients. They live close by in Dundarave.

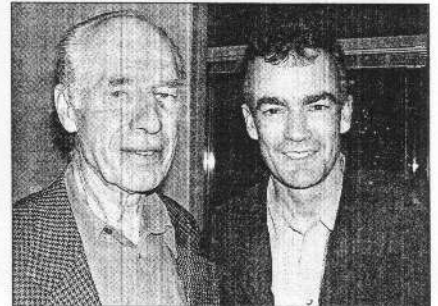

Rodney and Eryl Barber are two of the Snowball's favourite clients.

WHO are the people in your neighbourhood? Well in Dundarave, just ask the gang at B.C. Partners in Planning. After three and half years in the area, they seem to know just about everybody. At least that's what it looked like on Nov. 3 as they opened their newest financial planning office in one of Dundarave's most stylish buildings. Partner Ken Snowball said that his group was happy to share the occasion with all of their friends, family and clients as close to 110 people came out to wish them well.

Interior designers Deborah Maguire (left) and Pauline Cherwonik did a great job. They are both from Renaissance Interiors, also in Dundarave.

Jack Snowball, Ken's dad, talked with award-winning developer Stefan Elmitt who had a hand in building the new Dundarave location.

West Vancouver Mayor Ron Wood cut the purple ribbon with partner Ken Snowball to officially open the new office.
